Water has long been a central theme in Ron Rothbart's life, and in his photography. He grew up on the Atlantic coast (Miami) and moved to the San Francisco Bay Area after college. In the 1980's, he became an avid backpacker and loved to camp by high mountain lakes in the Sierras. Today, many of his photographs are created along San Francisco Bay and at the coast. Rothbart specializes in black and white, long-exposure photography. He loves being out by the water, composing simple, graphic images showing highly textured objects against smooth, silky water and blurred clouds. After earning an MA in philosophy and a PhD in Sociology, Rothbart worked for over twenty years as a technical writer and manager in the software industry.

He has shown his work in a number of group exhibitions as a member of the Berkeley Camera Club, Berkeley Fine Art Photographers, the f15 Photography Group, and the Digital Arts Collective at Berkeley City College.
